

Abstract

The present invention relates to the intermittent administration of a growth hormone secretagogue to a patient.